

Christmas 2018

Dear Friends and Family,

Happy Holidays! This year, Sarah (18) graduated high school in style. She replaced the school band's sheet music with EDM tracks, and the graduation march turned into a rave. Alex (12) began an archaeological dig in the backyard and claimed he found a dinosaur bone. It was actually my missing rolling pin.

John joined a competitive eating league and now holds the state record for most pancakes eaten in five minutes. As for me, I accidentally launched a frozen turkey into orbit after misusing John's trebuchet. I've been contacted by SpaceX for a potential collaboration.

Wishing you a holiday filled with laughter and fewer flying poultry!

Orbiting cheerfully,
The Smith Family